

WORLD DESIGN CAPITAL 2014 IMPLEMENTATION COMPANY

Cape Town has been designated World Design Capital 2014 by the International Council of Societies of Industrial Design (ICSID) - a most prestigious status befitting an extraordinarily design-forward city. Now comes the time to appoint a respected design aficionado equal to the task of being the ambassador of WDC2014.

CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER

Enviably design industry credentials meet strong operational capabilities

The power of good design to uplift and inspire cannot be denied and, as a person with a deep-seated understanding of the different aspects of design, you will be ideal as the strategic manager and leader of the WDC2014 Implementation Company, which has been mandated by the City of Cape Town to manage the planning, co-ordination and rollout of the WDC2014 programme.

Functions include: • Ensuring the alignment of the various operational units to support strategic objectives and their cohesion with National Government policy initiatives • Providing ongoing strategic advice to the Board on the general operations of the organisation • Ensuring that all the functions comply with legislation, corporate governance principles and best practice standards • Managing the professional external liaison and the development of partnerships • Inspiring staff and providing clear direction • Developing and executing policies and procedures.

It is therefore imperative that serious contenders have some 10 years' Senior Management experience in managing a similarly complex organisation or projects and hold a postgraduate qualification in such fields as Financial Management, Design, Business or Law. Superior interpersonal skills and top-to-bottom communication capabilities are also needed. To be considered ideal for this high profile role, candidates must prove evidence of respect gained from the design community, government and the private sector alike. Sound knowledge of financial management and relevant financial legislation is essential.

A market-related remuneration package is on offer for this 30-month contract post.
